PEAK Project dissemination at Leeds Beckett University

Leeds Beckett University offer accredited courses in 12 languages, open to all undergraduates at the university. English language courses are also available to undergraduates and academic English courses are available to all international students. In addition, we offer 14 languages as part of the community provision which enrolls over a thousand students each year. All classrooms are equipped with digital equipment and teachers use blackboard and other digital resources to enhance language learning.

Following the training at Bourgas Free University, a workshop was held to introduce the PEAK project to languages staff, especially the eMotion module which was at the core of the training in Bourgas. The workshop was attended by lecturers of a wide range of languages including Arabic, French, Italian, Japanese and Spanish. The aim of the workshop was to give an opportunity to practice using freely available programmes to produce resources for language learning, using the eMotion module. The workshop was received well and participants commented on the usefulness and adaptability of the resources available. Here are some screenshots from the resources produced by tutors.

The screenshot shows a video player interface for a lesson titled "El Guernica de Picasso". The video player is on the left, showing a still from the painting. On the right, there is a list of 10 multiple-choice questions. The questions are:

- 01:18 ¿Cuál es capacidad del arte?
- 02:19 ¿Cuál fue el propósito de pintar este cuadro?
- 03:02 ¿Cuáles son las obras más destacadas aparte del Guernica?
- 03:55 ¿Qué colores usa Picasso?
- 04:22 ¿Qué parece representar el toro?
- 04:45 ¿Qué puede representar la bombilla?
- 05:26 ¿Cómo están representadas estas dos mujeres?
- 06:00 ¿Cuándo recibió el encargo?
- 07:24 ¿Qué llegaron a pensar algunos expertos?
- 08:04 ¿Cuándo terminó la indecisión y el estancamiento de Picasso?
- 09:09 ¿Picasso quiso que El Guernica fuera a España?

The eMotion module is now available to all language lecturers at Leeds Beckett to explore the resources available with ongoing support from those who participated in the training at Bourgas. Languages at Leeds Beckett would especially like to thank colleagues at Bourgas Free University who made the eMotion module self-access, providing support to self-enrol on the module.
